The know-all new choirmaster

Alice and her four friends, Pat, Jan, Adrian, and Alex all sing in their local church choir at St Gurgling.

One evening before choir practice they were sitting in a back pew together having a good natter when the new choirmaster arrived, looking very business-like. He surveyed the motley crew of 35 singers in the choir stalls, grouped in their soprano, bass, tenor and alto sections on either side of him. No-one had seen him before, and he knew none of the singers either.

But taking his place at the podium, the choirmaster took one look at the choir, pointed at Alice, and barked "You! You in the woolly hat! You're in the wrong place. Please take your proper seat immediately".
